

Senior Microsoft WCF Technical Specialists (C#.NET, WCF, Distributed Processing, Multithreading, Concurrency)

Infotex is seeking 2 Senior specialist (2) to design and develop complex middleware including service oriented architectures. This position requires two senior Microsoft system developer that have strong experience in critical systems and can design and deliver generic re-usable service oriented frameworks. The candidates should understand and be able to articulate a broad range of core concepts, including distributed processing, multithreading, concurrency problems and resolutions, and optimum utilization of resources for enhancing the performance of the system.

Minimum Requirements:

- Bachelors degree in Computer Science, Information Technology or related major.
- Five years of related work experience with a proven track record in designing, developing, documenting, and delivering high-performance, reliable, reusable extensible, and maintainable technical solutions
- Strong knowledge of C#.NET, WCF, Console programming.
- Good understanding and experience with distributed transaction processing, non-stop processing, threads, concurrency, service oriented architectures, etc.
- Experience with Windows Operating Systems & Web servers.
- Ability to integrate with databases (oracle or MS SQL), webservices and front end web solutions
- Experience with development environments, preferably VisualStudio.NET 2008.
- Experience providing technical advice and guidance to colleagues.
- Good English communication and cross-group collaboration skills
- Ability to understand and integrate new technologies.
- Ability to work effectively in a team environment.
- Ability to multitask, troubleshoot and resolve problems.
- Experience with Team Foundation Server, Python/unix shell programming (Sed/awk), Regular expression based string processing and search engines and will be considered an advantage

This position provides optimal room for advancement and unlimited potential for career development. infotex is fast growing and interested in the growth and success of its employees.

Compensation:

€20,000 – €40,000 Annually based on qualifications

To apply: Send CV to careers@info-tex.com